DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-2, 6-7, 10-16, 19, 21-23 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over all relevant claims of U.S. Patent Nos. 6,615,291 and 6,614,892. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because context of the related applications are the same as the context of the present invention. As in the claimed invention, the claims of the patents recite limitations regarding transmitting and receiving plurality of addresses from transmission destinations and storing that information for future use.

3. Claims 1-2, 6-7, 10-16, 19, 21-23 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over all claims of copending Application Nos. 09/618,538, 09/626,489, and 11/178,338. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because context of the related applications are the same as the context of the present invention. As in the claimed invention, the claims of the patents recite limitations regarding transmitting and receiving plurality of addresses from transmission destinations and storing that information for future use.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

5. The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

6. Claim(s) 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Maeda, US Pat. App. No. 2003/0107776 A1.

7. As per claim 23, Maeda teaches a data communication apparatus capable of connecting a plurality of communication lines, comprising:

a specification unit for specifying a transmission destination (Abstract and ¶¶ 0006-0010);

a transmission unit for transmitting a plurality of its own address data corresponding to each of the plurality of communication lines to the specified transmission destination (¶¶ 0006-0010 and 0015-0021);

a receiving unit for receiving a plurality of address data from a data communication apparatus at the transmission destination (¶¶ 0006-0010 and 0015-0021); and a recording unit for recording the address data received by the receiving unit (¶¶ 0006-0010 and 0015-0021); and a controller adapted to cause the transmission unit to transmit the plurality of its own address data regardless of which one of the plurality of communication lines is used for transmission (¶¶ 0006-0010 and 0015-0021).

Conclusion

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-2, 4, 6-8, 10-11, 13-16, 19 and 21-23 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. The applicants argued in substance regarding newly added claim 23 that the prior art does not teach "a controller adapted to cause the transmission unit to transmit the plurality of its own address data regardless of which one of the plurality of communication lines is being used for transmission." Applicants support this assertion by stating "the data communication apparatus [of the instant invention] transmits the address data regardless of whether the communication is occurring via telephone lines or the Internet."

In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., telephone lines or Internet) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).
